

Acknowledgements ix
Abbreviations x

Introduction: Posthuman Modernism 1

- 1 Finitude 7
- 2 The Cybernetic Eye/Dis-organised Perspective 13

1 A History of Narcissistic Wounds 17

- 1 Realism at the Limits of the Human 22
- 2 The Resilience of the Dialectic 28
- 3 The Spurious and the Impossible 35
- 4 The Posthuman Event, a New Geometry of Concepts 41
- 5 Cyborgs, Androids, Thinking Machines: Rounding Up the Usual Suspects 47
- 6 Self-mourning, an Event between Two Histories 62

2 The Apocalyptic Chronotope 69

- 1 On or about January 3, 1889 72
- 2 Apocalypse and the Ethics of the Limit 74
- 3 Secret Agency 80
- 4 Unattributed Life 89
- 5 Dying Better in Pirandello 95
- 6 The Spiritualist Temptation of Mattia Pascal 104
- 7 Posthuman Stakes 106

3 Thinking Historicity with Trees 109

- 1 Genre, Gender, Generation 112
- 2 Growing Rings, Being Historical 122
- 3 Secret, Slow and Like the Intercourse of Lovers 133

4 Funny Being Dead! Tragic and Comic Laughter 140

- 1 Arousing the Dead 142
- 2 Testament, Figure and Cliche 148
- 3 Two in One—or, the Tell-tale Foreskin 152
- 4 A Mad Juncture in the History of Spirit 157
- 5 A Brief History of Tragic and Comic Thought (Early Days) 159
- 6 "John Duffy's Brother" 161
- 7 A Brief History of Tragic and Comic Thought (Modernity) 164
- 8 Tragic Laughter: Beckett and Deleuze 167
- 9 Limits of the Dialectic 173
- 10 The Passage to the Limit 179
- 11 Pathos and Judgement 182
- 12 "Echo's Bones" 191

Conclusion: Passivity of the Eye 196

Works Cited 201

Index 214