

List of Significant Chinese Philosophical Concepts vii

Translators' Introduction to Philosophical Horizons ix

1	Introduction	1
2	The Dual Character of Philosophy	6
3	Problems and Methodology	14
4	The Completion of the Person and Its Multiple Dimensions: Education within a Philosophic Horizon	22
5	The Content of Value Concepts	39
6	Ethical Life and Practical Morality	43
7	The View of Man and the View of Matter: the Philosophical Implications of Ecological Problems	60
8	Metaphysics and Other Matters: Responses to a Number of Philosophical Questions	70
9	Chinese Philosophy as Philosophy	96
10	Chinese Philosophy: Questions and Their Evolution	129
11	Identification and Recognition	140
12	Dao and Chinese Philosophy	146
13	The Question of Human Nature in Chinese Philosophy	166
14	The Idea of Reason and Rationality in Chinese Philosophy	178
15	The Study of Philosophers in History	197
16	The Concept Gongzheng ("Justice") in the History of Chinese Thought	209
17	The World of Emotions in the Book of Songs	221
18	Metaphysical Principle and Principle of Value: the Way (Dao 道) and Natural Spontaneity (Ziran 自然) in the Philosophy of the Laozi	238
19	Meritocratic Politics: Its Meaning and Limitations	256
20	The Great (Modern) Debates: Substance and Function, Past and Present, China and the West	272
21	Analytic Philosophy and Chinese Philosophy	288
22	Metaphysical Thought in a Post-Metaphysical Age: an Interview with Yang Guorong	303
	Bibliography	327
	Index	330